When studying societies, social scientists have found that minority religions are treated just badly as minority races are.

Prejudice against races is taboo now, but prejudice against 'cults' is encouraged.

This is called multiple hypothesis theory, and it is helpful in figuring out situations for which you don't have all the data but you want to understand what's going on.

Which level of likelihood would you assign to these 3 hypotheses for what we see in Mike Rinder's behavior?

Show this thread

Alanzo @AlanzosBlog · Sep 17

And also, "Rinder hasn't exposed one crime committed by OSA in the 22 yrs he ran it for DM because he is running an ALL CLEAR UNIT for DM just like they did for L Ron Hubbard to help him escape prosecution."

You would consider all 3 and assign a level of likelihood to each one.

Show this thread

Alanzo @AlanzosBlog · Sep 17

In an environment like this where data is missing, withheld & outright lied about, always consider a few more, like: "Rinder isn't exposing the crimes he committed for DM because he might be protecting his own ass from going to jail, allowing those he harmed to flap in the wind."

Show this thread

Alanzo @AlanzosBlog · Sep 17

You have to accept the possibility that there might be other explanations. While this one might be true, you need multiple explanations in addition to this one that you consider, too, assigning a level of likelihood to each one.

Show this thread

Alanzo @AlanzosBlog · Sep 17

A mistake would be to latch on to a single explanation for this like "Poor Mike Rinder was BRAINWASHED into running the Office of Special Affairs for 22 yrs!" and to believe that this was the ONLY possible explanation for what we see in Rinders behavior.

Show this thread

Alanzo @AlanzosBlog · Sep 17

In that kind of environment, the worst mistake you can make is believing that there is only ONE explanation for some phenomena or situation you're trying to understand.

There was three people involved, Robin Howard Avison Scott, Ron Lawley and Morag Bellmaine.

They dressed up in full Sea Org uniform and entered AOSH EU claiming they were missionaries from RTC. They went to the Snr C/S and demanded the NOTs materials for inspection. They also wanted a room where they could check out the materials undisturbed. They were given both.

Later same day the Snr C/S could not find the three people anymore. They were gone and so was the NOTs pack.

Questioning things is good in science, right?

Rupert Sheldrake's Questions for Materialists:

1. Is the mechanistic worldview a testable scientific theory, or a metaphor?
2. If it is a metaphor, why is the machine metaphor better in every respect than the organism metaphor?
3. If it is a scientific theory, how could it be tested or refuted?

4. Do you think that you yourself are nothing but a complex machine?
 5. Like all machines, have you been programmed to believe in materialism?

Wow, you promote a cult that experiments on Autistic children?
twitter.com/fionapettit71/...
Shame on you!!

From The Times (London); Ireland edition of 29th November 2017
Scientologists in Dublin

peddle ‘cure for autism’

Seán McCárthaigh
Senior Ireland News Reporter

A woman who says that the Church of Scientology in Dublin offered her a €1,600 detoxification programme that would cure her autistic son has complained to gardai.

The church, which recently opened a centre in Firhouse, is likely to face questions about its alleged promotion of the controversial treatment. It follows claims by Fiona O’Leary, below, an autism rights campaigner, that a Scientology member based in the centre offered to sell her a “purification rundown” programme to treat her son.

Ms O’Leary founded Autistic Rights Together, which has been campaigning against anti-vaccine conspiracy theories and therapies that are falsely sold as a treatment for autism.

Purification Rundown is a trademark owned by the governing body of the Church of Scientology. The programme includes sweating in a sauna for several hours a day, an intense exercise regime and taking high doses of supplements for several weeks. It is used by the church’s drug rehabilitation programme.

Niacin, otherwise known as Vitamin B3, is commonly used in doses of up to 5,000mg as part of the programme. The daily recommended allowance for adults is about 15mg.

Ms O’Leary said that she had been contacted by a representative of the Firhouse centre after she completed a personality test on a Scientology website. During the conversation she said that she was offered a copy of a book on purification rundown by L Ron

David Miscavige, the church’s world leader, opened the centre in Firhouse

Hubbard, the founder of Scientology, and then the treatment itself after she had asked about what it did. The Times has heard a recording of the conversation.

Ms O’Leary said that she was horrified to learn that the treatment was being sold with the promise that it worked “100 per cent” for conditions such as autism. A Scientologist also told her that they could provide a room to rent for €80 per week for anyone on the programme.

“Scientologists are anti-science and anti-psychiatry and encourage people to walk away from professional care,” Ms O’Leary said.

“They believe that auditing and purification rundowns can keep you free from sickness. They also claim to cure many conditions which people may have.”

She also pointed to claims about deaths among people who had had purification rundowns.

In 2003 during a legal action against the Church of Scientology,

Michael Ryan, who was head of University College Dublin’s pharmacology department, told the High Court that the treatment was not safe or scientifically verified.

Ms O’Leary said that people exposed to the treatment were being placed at risk and that vulnerable adults and children would be enticed to try it on the back of misleading health claims. “This is a public health issue and the government needs to be doing something about it,” she said.

She has notified gardai as well as the Medical Council and the Health Products Regulatory Authority.

A garda spokesman confirmed yesterday that a report had been filed with gardai in Tallaght in relation to a health issue but declined to state if it related to the Church of Scientology.

The HPRA refused to comment. The Church of Scientology in Dublin did not respond to a request for comment.

Complaints have been posted on social media that events open to the public at the new centre are being used by Scientologists to recruit members.

The 1,200-seater venue is located in the former Victory Centre which the church bought for €6 million.

Its official opening was attended by David Miscavige, the movement’s leader. Security was tight and several dozen protesters staged a demonstration outside.

I will stand with you.

Premised barbies for rape at 10 years old and Promised babies for rape at 10 years old and frightened. Beaten and thrown down the steps every chance he got. When the DHS worker came to investigate he was very aggressive and forcefully made me recant.

I hid my secret for another 15 years until my abuser sent me leud text messages the day before I graduated school. When my relative finally found out, she told me I would never see her again if I ever decided to share my story.

5 years later I am sharing my story and finally starting to heal. #NoMoreRegrets

Dear Minister,

My attention has been drawn to what I would see as a dangerous form of quackery, which in essence entails aspects of child abuse, that is being introduced into Ireland. This is the so-called "cdprotocol" which involves administering a product called MMS to children, apparently with the promise that it can "cure" autism.

I know you will agree that this is obvious and dangerous nonsense. The MMS product is a form of bleach which is toxic – its adherents even claim that the side effects of the toxicity are evidence that the treatment is working. They appear to believe that autism is caused by parasites and that this bleach can eradicate them.

I am told that there are several practitioners of this dangerous method already in Ireland, and that Irish parents (many of whom would, as you know, be vulnerable to claims of this sort) are being encouraged to give this poison to their children.

I have written to the Health Products Regulatory Authority about the MMS product, and I would respectfully ask you to use your good offices to have this entire matter investigated.

With best wishes.

Yours sincerely,

Fergus Finlay

everyone knows all the facts about several lies that MSM have shamelessly promoted. It's important not just for the truth of #Tuam and #Savita and many other events that have been laced with kool aid to manipulate the public, it's VITAL that blatant dishonesty and chicanery of Varadkar and his gang of liars are exposed.

Broadcast and print media can neither be trusted nor believed. Establishment politicians are lying to us every time they speak. The political establishment's endorsement of both the Tuam and Savita lies has exposed them.

Take a moment to let it sink in.

Varadkar, Harris, Coveney, Regina Doherty, Zappone, et al should be pelted with rotting fruit and vegetables every time they appear in public.

Catholic church are not claiming they can 'cure' Autism or advocating BLEACH enemas for Autistic children.

Plus Scientology is not a religion and does not have religious status in Ireland.

From The Times (London); Ireland edition of 29th November 2017 Scientologists in Dublin peddle 'cure for autism'

Seán McCárthaigh
 Senior Ireland News Reporter

A woman who says that the Church of Scientology in Dublin offered her a €1,600 detoxification programme that would cure her autistic son has complained to gardai.

The church, which recently opened a centre in Firhouse, is likely to face questions about its alleged promotion of the controversial treatment. It follows claims by Fiona O'Leary, below, an autism rights campaigner, that a Scientology member based in the centre offered to sell her a "purification rundown" programme to treat her son.

Ms O'Leary founded Autistic Rights Together, which has been campaigning against anti-vaccine conspiracy theories and therapies that are falsely sold as a treatment for autism.

Purification Rundown is a trademark owned by the governing body of the Church of Scientology. The programme includes sweating in a sauna for several hours a day, an intense exercise regime and taking high doses of supplements for several weeks. It is used by the church's drug rehabilitation programme.

Niacin, otherwise known as Vitamin B3, is commonly used in doses of up to 5,000mg as part of the programme. The daily recommended allowance for adults is about 15mg.

Ms O'Leary said that she had been contacted by a representative of the Firhouse centre after she completed a personality test on a Scientology website. During the conversation she said that she was offered a copy of a book on purification rundown by L Ron

David Miscavige, the church's world leader, opened the centre in Firhouse

Hubbard, the founder of Scientology, and then the treatment itself after she had asked about what it did. The Times has heard a recording of the conversation.

Ms O'Leary said that she was horrified to learn that the treatment was being sold with the promise that it worked "100 per cent" for conditions such as autism. A Scientologist also told her that they could provide a room to rent for €80 per week for anyone on the programme.

"Scientologists are anti-science and anti-psychiatry and encourage people to walk away from professional care," Ms O'Leary said.

"They believe that auditing and purification rundowns can keep you free from sickness. They also claim to cure many conditions which people may have."

She also pointed to claims about deaths among people who had had purification rundowns.

In 2003 during a legal action against the Church of Scientology,

Michael Ryan, who was head of University College Dublin's pharmacology department, told the High Court that the treatment was not safe or scientifically verified.

Ms O'Leary said that people exposed to the treatment were being placed at risk and that vulnerable adults and children would be enticed to try it on the back of misleading health claims. "This is a public health issue and the government needs to be doing something about it," she said.

She has notified gardai as well as the Medical Council and the Health Products Regulatory Authority.

A garda spokesman confirmed yesterday that a report had been filed with gardai in Tallaght in relation to a health issue but declined to state if it related to the Church of Scientology.

The HPRA refused to comment. The Church of Scientology in Dublin did not respond to a request for comment.

Complaints have been posted on social media that events open to the public at the new centre are being used by Scientologists to recruit members.

The 1,200-seater venue is located in the former Victory Centre which the church bought for €6 million.

Its official opening was attended by David Miscavige, the movement's leader. Security was tight and several dozen protesters staged a demonstration outside.

AUTISM FACTS

It's always important to remember that "autism" is a label invented by psychiatry for behaviours they they don't understand and certainly can't cure. The first step one can take is to reject the labeling and instead embrace the diversity and breath of human behaviour. There is no normal or abnormal human behaviour, there is simply different kinds of human behaviour. Embracing that is the first step. It is also important to identify substances that can have harmful effects on vulnerable children. In this case it was identified that MSG was harming a child and that without MSG the child felt better. So the psychiatric approach was to label a child with the "autism" label. Evidence-based fact checking revealed that what was really going on were MSG side effects. A good example for anyone struggling to understand the "autism" disinformation that is put out by the discredited and shrinkinng

The cult knows very well that I am represented by Counsel. Ray Jeffrey and appellate lawyer Leslie Hyman. They circumvented my lawyers and sent this Private Investigator to my home to harass me. Once it is known that someone is represented by counsel, it violates California Rule of Professional Responsibility which precludes direct or indirect contact with a represented party, absent consent of the party's counsel.

My counsel gave no such permission.

I immediately went on the air summarizing Scientology in one paragraph and revealing OT 8 contents. I will punish such conduct from this Frankenstein cult that destroys families.

Powerful quote from a #Jonestown #Survivor!

When our own thoughts are forbidden, when our questions are not allowed and our doubts are punished, when contacts and friendships outside of the organization are censored, we are being abused for an end that never justifies its means.

When our heart aches knowing we have made friendships and secret attachments that will be forever forbidden if we leave, we are in danger. When we consider staying in a group because we cannot bear the loss, disappointment and sorrow our leaving will cause for ourselves and those we have come to love, we are in a cult."

My nan always says to lie you have to have a great memory - for example lying about assault claims when there is a police report @Scientology dont you ever get embarrassed by your lies?

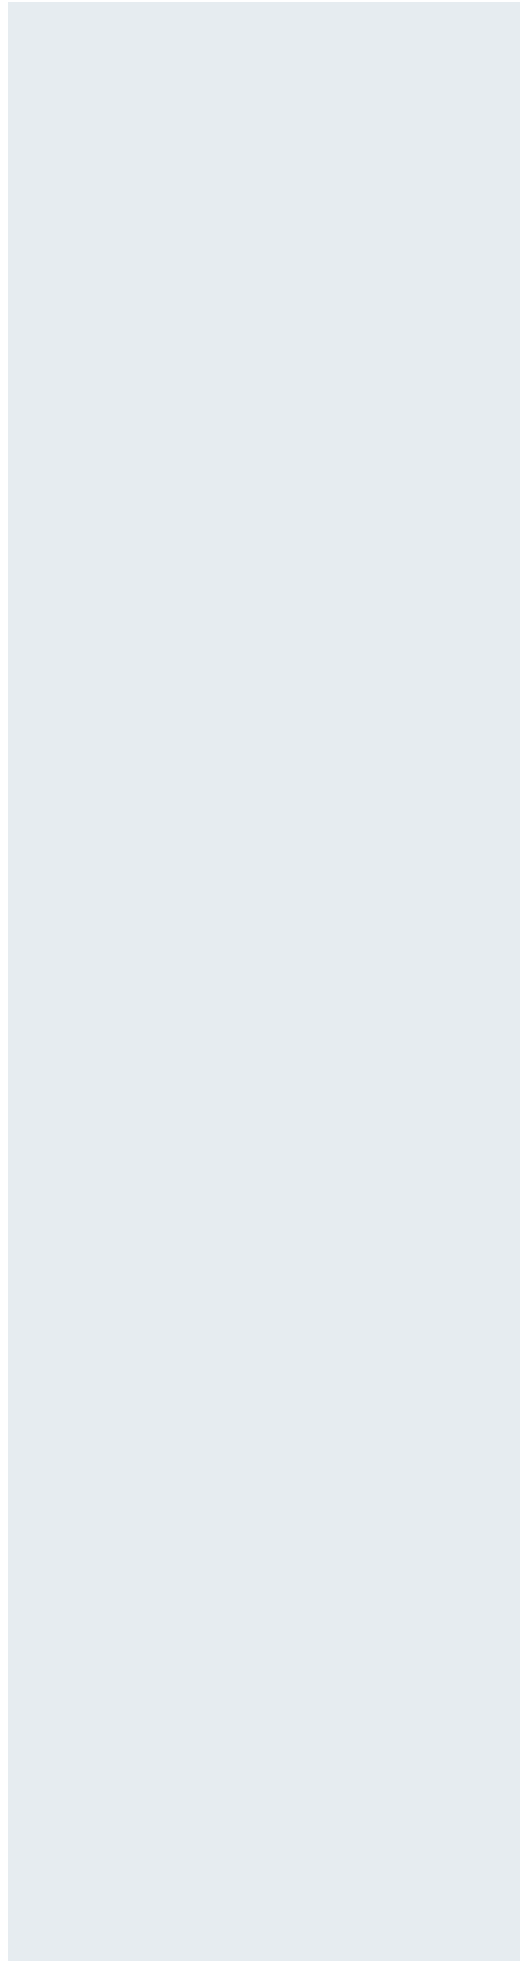

Analysis Information - Continued

Marchman Act:	NO
Disturbance:	NO
Alarm:	NO
Baker Act:	NO

Narrative

On April 23, 2010 I responded to 28469 US Highway 19 in reference to a possible battery complaint.

Upon arrival I made contact with Catherine Rinder who was being treated for a skin abrasion on her right arm by Clearwater Fire/Rescue #50. According to Catherine she had been driving in the area with other people (identified as Taryn Rinder, Andrew Rinder and Susan Wilhere) and when she saw her estranged husband pull into the doctor's office where they attempted to confront him regarding him not speaking with the family (Catherine claimed that it was a coincidence that they saw Michael and that she was not intentionally looking for him).

During the confrontation Catherine admitted to standing outside the driver's side door of Michael's car attempting to keep him inside by holding the door shut. She stated that Michael forced his way out then walked into the doctor's office and that she followed him in an attempt to make him speak to her. According to Catherine she received the injuries to her arms when Michael grabbed at her forearms during the altercation as he was walking towards the doctors office with her following.

I then spoke with Michael, who identified himself as a former member of the Church of Scientology, and who stated that he had driven to the doctor's office with his girlfriend, Christie Colbran. While he was waiting outside in his vehicle, his car was surrounded by Catherine, Taryn, Andrew, Susan and 4 other subjects he identified as private investigators. It should be noted their affiliation with the church is unknown since they left prior to my arrival on scene. Michael stated that the subjects began to yell at him regarding his position in the church since he left and because he has been talking to the media. Michael stated that Catherine was on the driver's side of his vehicle and was pushing against the door as he attempted to exit. He said that he eventually pushed his way out and was walking towards the doctor's office while the group continued to follow and yell at him regarding his media attention. Michael also stated that he recently attempted to make contact with his son at the Church of Scientology in Clearwater and that he had been trespassed from there within the last week due to the disturbance.

During the investigation, Andrew, Susan and Taryn were interviewed separately and they stated that they had been in town from California with Catherine and that they were attempting to confront Michael regarding his desire not to speak to his family. They stated that they found him at the doctor's office today and confronted him while he was in the car. They collectively stated that they were trying to speak with Michael due to being estranged from the family and that they did not want to cause any problems during the incident.

I then spoke with Christie, who also identified herself as a former church member, who did not observe the outside disturbance but did see Catherine and Taryn inside the waiting room of the office when they followed Michael inside. According to Christie she is aware that the church is not happy with Michael's media attention and that she believes that Catherine is upset with Michael's departure from the church along with his relationship with her (referring to Christie).

I finally spoke with Doctor Holly Johantgen, the complainant, who stated that she was with her client, Christie, when she heard yelling in the waiting room. When she went into the area she observed people yelling at Michael as he was trying to back away from them. I was able to identify the subjects inside the office as Taryn and Catherine along with Andrew who was standing at the doorway of the office. Dr. Johantgen stated that she wanted to give trespass warnings to the individuals involved and issued a verbal warning to Catherine, Taryn, Andrew and Susan who stated they understood the warning and would not return to the property.

Based on the information I received during the investigation it appears that Michael was intentionally followed to the doctor's office and confronted either due to his departure from the Church of Scientology or his desire to break his ties with his family. Although Catherine did receive an abrasion on her arm the injury was likely caused during incidental contact while Michael was attempting to move away from the group rather than an intentional battery.

Disposition: Case closed, solved non criminal don't forget your wounds and why you bled to get to where you are now. no matter what happens, you're only a dream away from a new beginning. it's okay if you're still learning how to love. countless people believe they already do and discover themselves in the trunk of their own hearts, wondering how many bodies can actually fit inside and live comfortably. know your bones and where they are best suited to grow if you want a meaningful and happy life. smile at yourself. laugh as ridiculously loud as you can. be the person that makes you forget all of the terrible things that have happened to you. what i'm trying to say is, fall in love with who you are now. once it happens, you will find that it's more difficult to give yourself away to the wrong people.

never forget, always protect your wild.

If you actually did research you'd find that LRH died from a stroke and he was on anti-psychotics. Oppsie! OT 3 is all about Xenu and volcanoes that didn't even exist when LRH said they did 🤪 and OT8 is LRH calling himself the anti christ and saying thanks for playing, this was all a joke and you have tons of body thetans. There's no blaming here. It's cold hard facts. So the only thank you letter Scientology will get from me is the Fuck you letter that comes from me when they get shut down by the FBI. You ever made a statement regarding who is right or wrong to love. I was on staff with 80 other staff members for years WITH A GAY GUY - one of my best friends - he did his job, he was awesome, everyone loved him and no one cared about who he felt sexual desire for. Why? Because there are other FAR more important things to care about, like helping others, making people feel better, improving ourselves and the world we are in, understanding the universe and world peace.

Was he covertly hostile?
Sometimes yes, sometimes no - deviation in Dynamic I (i.e. sexuality) such as homosexuality, lesbianism, sexual sadism, etc., and all down the catalog of Ellis and Krafft-Ebing) is actually quite ill physically...he is very far from culpable for his condition, but he is also far from normal and extremely dangerous to society...[1] L.Ron Hubbard

2m Reply

1225paris @retrofilly but please, tell me more about how Scientology welcomes everyone (including people who are gay) with open arms! I can post more. I'd shut up if I were you. @shebean whatever already blocked me. I'm a declared SP by the way and also a truth speaker. I'm about to make you and the cult you call a religion look really Scientology is based on LRH policy and he specifically states where someone who is gay falls on the tone scale. You were on staff, good for you, I was raised at Saint Hill in the cadet and sea org and there was no one around who was gay. It was openly talked about how gays were 1.1 and there were many instances where any that made it onlines had to have auditing to get it audited out of them. Unlike you, I know LRH policy and I can post it

AND SO WHAT?? We ALL feel every emotion there is to feel, don't we?
SO WHAT? Scn. is about understanding yourself, others and the universe better and becoming for you if you'd like. Don't tell me what Scientology is or isn't about. I can show you policies where LRH said it was ok to hit someone if you were upset. The Khan Khan policy gives unlimited powers to someone who is upset, etc. You literally just made my point by making a point to say that he may have been covertly hostile. So please, STFU with that

Comments

1225paris @shesadean actually, this is not true and the reason people have an issue with it is because her "faith" lies about it. I was born into Scientology and grew up in it. Being gay/bi is considered to be 1.1 on the tone scale which is basically saying that they are covertly hostile. I can show you the tone scale and proof of this if you need it. Great for her for putting it out there that she's BI. Whatever makes you happy BUT her "faith" does not feel the same way. Now before you tell me to be more productive with my time, Scientology destroyed my family. My father and brother haven't spoken to me in 18 years because I chose a different path. So any "faith/religion" that condones the destruction of families and shesabean @cabannagal So interesting that you would choose Bijou's faith to criticize when practically every religious group at one point in time has scrutinized and vilified the lgbtq community. In some cases, have gone so far as to use brutality against lgbtq members in the name of religion. The fact is there are members of the lgbtq community who are Scientologists, there are gay people who are catholic, Muslim, Jewish, Christian, etc. In all those faiths there are people who are loving and accepting who represent their chosen faith well, and people who are hateful and bigoted much like how you're acting now towards Bijou.

It is an unexpected but delightful surprise to find myself excited and invigorated to be returning to Jean-Luc Picard and to explore new dimensions within him.

I will always be very proud to have been a part of Star Trek: The Next Generation, but when we wrapped that final movie in the spring of 2002, I truly felt my time with Star Trek had run its natural course. It is, therefore, an unexpected but delightful surprise to find myself excited and invigorated to be returning to Jean-Luc Picard and to explore new dimensions within him. Seeking out new life for him, when I thought that life was over.

During these past years, it has been humbling to hear stories about how The Next Generation brought people comfort, saw them through difficult periods in their lives or how the example of Jean-Luc inspired so many to follow in his footsteps, pursuing science, exploration and leadership. I feel I'm ready to return to him for the same reason – to research and experience what comforting and reforming light he might shine on these often very dark times. I look forward to working with our brilliant creative team as we endeavor to bring a fresh, unexpected and pertinent story to life once more.

Fathers of America, you more than anyone should be demanding a stop to this. What if this was your daughter? What if you knew, but at the time never spoke up to avoid public harassment. This is not ok.

Statement from Lisa Banks, lawyer for Christine Blasey Ford

Dr. Ford was reluctantly thrust into the public spotlight only two days ago. She is currently unable to go home, and is receiving ongoing threats to her and her family's safety. Fairness and respect for her situation dictate that she should have time to deal with this. She continues to believe that a full non-partisan investigation of this matter is needed and she is willing to cooperate with the Committee she is willing to cooperate with the committee.

However, the Committee's stated plan to move forward with a hearing that has only two witnesses is not a fair or good faith investigation; there are multiple witnesses whose names have appeared publicly and should be included in any proceeding.
The rush to a hearing is unnecessary, and contrary to the Committee discovering the truth.
